QUEEN OF RUMANIA HURRYING HOME TO ASSIST THE GREEK

Is Vitrally Interested as Daughter and Son-in-Law Are Heads of Country—Believes If All Else Fails Powers May Listen to Woman's Voice—Other European News

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Queen Marie of Rumania, who came unobserved to England from the south of France early this week, is hurrying back to the Balkans in an effort, it is understood, to extricate Greece from her predicament, which is especially momentous to Marie, for her daughter and son-in-law are the heads of that troubled country.

The Rumanian queen, is said to feel that if international bodies, such as the league of nations, and the council of ambassadors, or separate negotiations between Greece and Italy fail to settle the dispute, the governments at Athens and Rome may be willing to listen to a woman's voice. Marie has been following all the developments of the quarrel, and felt confident that it could be settled by diplomacy. It was not until the Italian squadron bombarded Corfu that she decided to abandon her vacation in England and France and set out immediately for the seat of trouble.

Enroute to Balkans she will stop at several European capitals and strive to induce the governments to prevent Italy from taking further warlike measures. She will see her daughters, the Queen of Jugo-Slavia and the Queen of Greece and also will seek to advise and encourage young king George of Greece, whose position never has been secure. It also is said that she will use her influence with King Victor Emmanuel of Italy to settle the dispute without further resort to violence.

Fashionable women of London, who have been anticipating some freedom of the knees this fall thru the promised return of crinolines, got a shock this week when the fashion show opened and they found that the fickle genius of designers had switched from crinolines to hobble skirts. They noted too, that not only are dresses getting tighter, but also are getting longer, and there are some who think that a glimpse of an ankle soon will be as rare and thrilling an experience as it was in Queen Victoria's time.

It cannot be said for certain that the vogue of black gowns goes on undiminished while the favorite color for fall hats is bottle green.

Reckless motorists are undergoing a healthy chastening at the hands of magistrates in London and other large provincial cities. This is in response to a wave of public opinion expressed thru the newspapers. Those charged with driving while intoxicated particularly are feeling the hard hand of the law and are being sent to jail instead of being let off with fines.

About ten dollars was the average fine imposed upon those who narrowly escaped hitting pedestrians.

The commonest type of drunk driver has not been the profes-

LOOK BEFORE YOU LOAD ADVICE TO SHIPPERS

Holes in Floors of Cattle Cars and Nails in Walls Prove Costly

URBANA, Ill. (By the A. P.)—Holes in the floors of cattle cars, projecting nails in the walls and similar defects have caused the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois to transmit to shippers a warning to "look before you load."

A bulletin issued by the agricultural college said that in an inspection of 700 cars, arriving at seven of the largest markets it was found that seven of the cars had holes in the floors, 91 had projecting nails in the walls, and 88 had cleats that might and probably did, cause bad bruises. Eighty-two of the cars were without bedding, a large factor in the safe and comfort of animals in transit, the bulletin said.

"No matter who is responsible for the condition of cars," said the bulletin, "it is to the interest of the shippers always to make an inspection of his own, and most certainly it is up to him to see that the right kind of bedding is provided. Frequently partitions are used in stock cars, and because of this a careful examination must be made for projecting nails and cleats that may have been left when these partitions were removed. The floor is the most important part of the car. It should be gone over thoroughly and holes patched.

"Doors must be in good repair, and when the cattle or other live stock is loaded, securely fastened. Last year at one middle-western market 1,700 cattle and more than 2,000 hogs were found crippled in cars. In December, more than 1,000 crippled hogs were received at one of the eastern markets. These numbers are small in comparison with total receipts, but they looked mighty large to the shippers who owned the animals."

"The railroads maintain satisfactory car-inspection service at the large markets, but not all cars sent to country shippers have moved directly from the terminals."

sional chauffeur but the sporty young blood who spends a gay evening among the bright lights of the plebeian district and then starts to drive home through streets crowded with persons leaving the theaters. Some magistrates seemed to regard the performances of these drivers as trivial pranks before the public began to harken to their tales. But the slogan now is "jail for drunken drivers." The judges have bowed to this demand, and some otherwise respectable citizens have been sentenced to spend a fortnight or even a month in prison.

While the unfortunate drivers invariably protest that they had only a few drinks, one original prisoner recently astonished the magistrate by swearing that he drove more skillfully when drunk than when sober.

One incorrigible speeder is a member of parliament whose license had been endorsed fifteen times for exceeding the speed limit. He pays his fine of 40 shillings smilingly, but gets rude rebukes from labor members of the house.

Sir Arthur Stanley, chairman of the motor club, and an authority on the subject, declares that the best way to deal with offenders is to suspend or cancel their licenses, thereby making it impossible for them to sit at the wheel.

MEXICO MUCH IMPROVED

Babson Bullish on Outlook for Southern Republic

Wellesley Hills, Mass., Sept. 7, 1923.—Roger W. Babson today issued the following statement regarding conditions in Mexico:

"The most interesting event of the week to business men and investors is the announcement of the attitude of the Administration relative to Mexico. For some time, it has been known by those in intimate touch with the State Department that relations were becoming more friendly day by day between the United States and our neighbor of the South. Secretary Hughes, who went into the Cabinet very much prejudiced against Mexico, has been gradually becoming more friendly. In justice to Mr. Hughes, however, it should be said that conditions have entirely changed and that he has been a large factor in the improvement of relations. Fear was expressed in some quarters for Mexico with the announcement of President Harding's death, but President Coolidge has quieted these apprehensions with the assurance that he will carry out Mr. Harding's Mexican policy. This accounts for the recent action of the Administration and the hopefulness of all concerned."

"About a year ago the Mexican government, thru the efforts of New York bankers, agreed to a readjustment of its indebtedness. Continually during the past year various corporate readjustments have been going on, which show the good faith of the Obregon government. The action of the Mexican Congress regarding confiscation has been very satisfactory to American investors. The fact that all usurpers have been put down and that Villa himself has been finally eliminated has strengthened the situation. There are still many wild-eyed radicals in the Mexican government but these are gradually being tamed. Like Russia, Mexico is steadily becoming more conservative, having learned the lesson that natural resources are of no avail unless developed by men of integrity, industry, and intelligence. The Mexican revolution of the past ten years have been costly, but thru them the people have learned that it is men that make values, and that souls—not theories—make men."

"Mexico is a wonderful country. It is a large country, about a quarter the size of the United States, and is very rich in natural resources. You hear mostly about the oil of Mexico, but there is only a small fraction of her wealth. The timber, mineral and agricultural resources far exceed anything that can ever be developed in oil. We talk about conditions in Europe, but forget these tremendous opportunities at our very door. However, this is only by human nature. Most people of Boston have never been to Bunker Hill Monument, and very few New Yorkers have climbed the Statue of Liberty. In the same way investors in England and France are today enthusiastic over the improved conditions in Mexico while we—her next door neighbors—scarcely give them a thought. The new attitude of our government toward Mexico should help business in this country, especially in the border States. Cities like New Orleans, San Antonio, El Paso, St. Louis, and Kansas City should especially profit. The Pacific coast will always be benefitted by a stable Mexico."

"Many investors in the United States and Canada are interested in Mexican securities. The great utilities of Mexico are financed by American investors and Toronto. Canadian investors are also interested in Mexican cotton mills. Investors in the United States are interested in mining projects, railroads, and especially in Mexican oil. All of these properties should be benefitted by the United States recognition of the Mexican government. Not only does this recognition help American investors directly but also indirectly, as it encourages investors in England and France who are also largely interested in Mexico. In the past three or four years almost every letter that I have received from English friends has asked, 'Why will not our government recognize Mexico?' It certainly should. Of course it will be some time before Mexican trade will make any impression on the Babson chart, which now stands at 10 per cent below normal; but some day it will, and that impression then will be distinctly favorable."

BRIDGE TO MEMORY OF DECEASED VETS

Would Build Structure Across Mississippi and Ohio at Cairo—Cost Estimated at $20,000,000

Danville, Ill. (By the A. P.)—Endorsement of a proposal to construct a $20,000,000 tri-state bridge connecting Illinois, Missouri and Kentucky, at the junction of the Mississippi and Ohio rivers at Cairo, as a national memorial to soldiers and sailors who lost their lives in the World war, will be asked of the fifth annual Illinois convention of the American Legion, which meets here September 17 and 18 according to information received by Department Commander Charles W. Schick. Endorsement will be asked by the Cairo post of the Legion.

"Such a monument doing service in highway transportation for the living, crossing two of America's greatest waterways, connecting three of America's greatest states in the heart of the Mississippi valley, towering high over those Federal waterways, would be the grandest monument the American people could provide, and one which all America would be proud of, while in memory to those who gave their lives in the service of the country," said a communication from Allen O. Hickox, commander of the Cairo post.

"These bridges are a large undertaking, national and tri-state in character. Should they be constructed under the Federal Highway act as highway bridges, the cost might be born, half by the federal government and half by the three states, divided as follows: Illinois 25 per cent, Kentucky 12 1-2 and Missouri 12 1-2 per cent."

"It has been suggested that the automobile owners of the United States contribute one dollar each and construct this grand memorial as a tribute to those who lost their lives in the service. Possibilities of this memorial are beyond comprehension by casual highway enthusiasts or automobile owners. It would serve the great International Peace Highway, planned from Montreal to Mexico City and beyond to Panama. It would serve the Mississippi Valley highway which is marked from Ely, Minn., to New Orleans."

"For more than 50 years these bridges have been talked of and the necessity of this public crossing confirmed. In the year 1906 these bridges were again revived and considerable time and expense was given to the project, but it seemed too large at that time and failure in co-operation delayed the promotion. In the year 1917, the matter was again revived and conferences held in Cairo, Washington, D. C., and other cities. Preliminary plans were prepared, providing for a crossing to take care of all character of traffic as a public convenience and necessity. The World war came on and negotiations ceased until 1921, when highway organizations became interested."

"There were 16 highways seeking crossings over the tri-state bridges in 1922, which were regarded as the logical crossing between St. Louis and Memphis and Louisville. The distance by highway between St. Louis and Memphis is about 345 miles and between Louisville and Memphis about 380 miles, with no crossings over these federal waterways between these cities."

"The tri-state bridge would be approximately 220 miles from the center of population of United States."

HOMES OF FORMER GERMAN ROYALTY HOUSING WORKMEN

Cite Instance of Famous Castle Szabor Property of Princess Hermine, Wife of Former Emperor of Germany—From Entertainment of Royalty is Put to Practical Uses

BERLIN, Sept. 8.—All romance has been crowded out of the famous castle Szabor, in Upper Silesia, which is the property of Princess Hermine, wife of former Emperor William of Germany. Szabor is the most recent of German historic institutions to be brought into use for practical purposes. The stately rooms which years ago were the scenes of many social functions of royalty and, in fact, the entire building, now are housing the strangest guests within the recollection of the oldest of the caretakers.

Instead of being the domicile of Princes and Princesses the castle has been made into homes for several scores of workmen expelled from the Ruhr and the Rhineland. They may have felt somewhat out of place at first, but they quickly adapted themselves to their new surroundings.

When the word was passed around that the German government was hard pressed for housing facilities properly to take care of hundreds of thousands of men, women and children who were being sent from the occupied area as an outcome of passive resistance to the French and Belgians, princess Hermine volunteered to turn over her old home to the government. In fact the princess made a special journey from Doorn, Holland, where she and the former Kaiser are living, to Szabor to put the castle in order for the new guests, who are to make it their home as long as necessary.

The castle was by no means stripped. Much of the ancient furniture remains, and all the copper cooking utensils in the immense kitchen were left for the use of the refugees. The kitchen is used as a central cooking place for all the families. Part of the garden and the grounds near the castle also have been given over for use by the refugees and for a children's playground.

Hermine continues to supervise the operations of the estate which is devoted chiefly to agriculture. For this purpose she makes frequent trips to Szabor, usually taking with her several of her fine children. For herself, Hermine has reserved one great room. This room she and her children occupy when they are at Szabor. They usually remain there a week or so on each visit.

Princess Vilma Lvoff-Parlaghy the eminent portrait painter who died recently in New York and who is said to have painted former Emperor William in more positions than any other artist, caused an upheaval in Berlin art circles some years ago which the present generation of artists will never forget.

Vilma, when some 35 years of age was most attractive and was in high favor at the Berlin court. Notwithstanding the outcries of the art critics, who charged favoritism, the emperor sat for seven portraits by Vilma, each time garbed in a different uniform.

Vilma's portraits of the emperor caused no particular wide concern outside art circles as William frequently had sat for various wielders of the brush; but when a jury of Berlin art exhibitors ruled out one of her paintings society was set talking. The painting was rejected, it was explained at the time, on the ground that her work lacked the real artistic touch which the jurors considered necessary to a picture which was to hang on the wall beside some of the world's great works.

The jury's decision, however, did not trouble Vilma. She merely appealed to the Kaiser, and the next day, by imperial order, her work was hung in the gallery hall despite the protests of Berlin's best known artists and all their friends. Not long afterward Vilma was awarded the Grand Medal of the exhibition, also, it was said, by special order of the emperor himself.

Vilma, who was a Hungarian, studied with two of Germany's greatest painters—Franz Lenbach and Market, and became acquainted with the younger social set. Her first husband was a German army officer. When he died she married the Russian Prince Lvoff. As a princess she became prominent in Berlin society life. She gave balls and feasts at the Phylharmonie, where she sat on a specially arranged throne and received the homage of international society. She owned a castle on the Riviera and flitted back and forth during the seasons between Berlin and France.

She painted Bismarck, Von Moltke, Sudermann, Prince Von Barlow and many other men of note. Alfred Krupp, the old "cannon king" sat for her. Vilma rendered Krupp a bill which he said afterward was "astounding" and it is said he took pains never to encounter her again after he sat for his portrait.

Russell Harve of Merritt Leigh borhood was among the visitors in the city yesterday.

Recollections of Japan (By S. W. Nichols)

The Protestant missions have done wonders for Japan. Marquis Ito, one of the country's greatest statesmen, said the missionaries who soon followed Commodore Perry when he opened the door to foreigners, had done more than any other cause or force to give Japan the great ability and trend she has shown since that time and will account for much of her great progress.

On my return I came in contact with a son of Mr. Townsend, at one time pastor of Grace M. E. church of this city. He was on his way with his family to his work in Kobe. Let us all hope he and his loved ones were spared during the awful catastrophe.

The Methodist church is the strongest there and while I was in Yokohama I had the pleasure of looking in on a conference presided over by a native bishop. They seemed to be doing everything decently and in order and all was going well.

One man will ever live in the memories of Christian Japanese and that is Joseph Neesima. He was an early convert and the good he did can hardly be measured.

Altho Japan is so old and the soil is well kept up as indeed it must be to supply food for so great a population. I suppose there is hardly a sewer or regular water closet in the empire. There are very few animals used and so all refuse of every kind is carefully collected and taken out on the land. At times the odor is anything but agreeable, but it must be endured. Horses are mainly used when at all as beasts of burden. The farming areas are so small that they are largely broken up with the spade.

The fish market at Tokio is indeed a marvel. Go down there early any morning and see the vast quantities of denizens of the deep brought in. There will be whole scow loads of sharks, almost as large as a man, caught for fertilizing. I have seen fish as large as a man and carried by two persons. Fish of every possible description are to be seen there from the little shrimps to the monsters mentioned.

Early in the morning the retail merchants hove about the market gathering in the good selling stock the one can also buy at the market any quantity desired. They know how to cook fish in Japan and prepare the article in a very palatable manner.

One reason for the abundance of fish in the Japanese waters is the gulf stream flowing constantly down from the north. The fishing industry gives occupation to 900,000 families or 3,000,000 individuals. Of boats 420,000 are used and the annual product is reckoned worth more than $225,000,000.

In addition to the fish a great deal of sea weed is utilized for a variety of purposes while pearls are often secured, some of great value.

While salt is not used as much in Japanese cooking as in ours it still is necessary and is obtained mainly by evaporating sea water. Almost every one thinks of Japan as a small nation and its territory somewhat insignificant but that is an error. It is an island empire to be sure but had the Chinese possessed the national spirit and ability of the Japanese their position in the world of nations would be far different from what it is today.

Japan proper comprises a territory of 162,655 square miles and its various acquisitions have greatly increased the area. The whole empire consists of five and a half large islands. Honshu, the main island, Kyushu, Shikoku, Yezo, Formosa and half Saghalien in addition to six hundred smaller ones stretching from the Pescadores, between Formosa and China to the Kurile Islands from the most northern of which the mountains of Kamchatka may be easily seen.

The various ocean currents, some warm and some cold, cause a great variety of climate within a comparatively small territory. The difference between the temperatures in localities no far apart is remarkable indeed.

On thing that especially impresses the tourists is the wonderful scenery of the islands; the verdure existing away up in the mountain sides. There is much of mist and rain in the islands but the resulting verdure well compensates for the inconvenience caused by the moisture so abundant. The native word for Japan is Nippon, meaning "Origin of the Sun" and the term is appropriate. Much of the time the temperature in Yokohama reminds one of conditions in San Francisco. Start out in the morning and walk on the shady side of the street and one will feel the need of a good overcoat but later cross over and walk in the sun and the extra garment is soon laid aside.

The mountain views all over Japan are simply enchanting. It is Switzerland on a larger scale and is wonderfully beautiful. Old Fujiama mounts to 12,365 feet and is most conspicuous and is to the natives the peerless mountain. Formosa has the highest peak of all, Mt. Taishan, 14,355 feet, but it is not so easily visited as Fuji. Then all over the realm are the smaller eminences so bewitching. I have no hesitation in saying that after my trip around the world I left heart in Japan.

Results of volcanic or seismic disturbances and there are several volcanoes still more or less active. The mountains and volcanoes give rise to all sorts of streams very beautiful and of different kinds. Often, near the volcanoes, are warm water springs and these are much prized by the natives who are a very cleanly people. In some of the rural districts people bathe a great deal and it is said, tho I didn't see any of them, that there are, or were, public baths used by both sexes indiscriminately but that is giving way to better ideas of propriety.

Like the mountains of Colorado and the West many enchanting streams flow down their sides, some small brooks and some larger bodies of water and as they dash over their pebbly beds they are beautiful indeed.

Then there numerous lakes, larger or smaller, to attract the traveler. Some of their euphonious names are Haruna, Chuzenji, Suwa, Inawashiro, Shoji and Motosu. Besides these lakes are small villages much sought by foreign tourists but the natives seek the warm water and it is said that one old man remained in the warm water all the time.

There are also innumerable waterfalls, grand and lovely, never to be forgotten by the visitor. There are not many rivers in Japan and few of them are navigable for any distance. The longest one is the Ishikari in Yezo. It is 418 miles long. Many of the rivers flowing into the ocean have sand bars at their mouths which prevent much navigation.

Harry Six was a caller in the city yesterday from Bluffs.

A Responsible House

What more could be said during these times, than

"You are doing business with a responsible house?"

Doing business without looking ahead is like driving a car on a dark night without your head lamp—you cannot see what you are coming to until you hit it, or it hits you—then, it's too late. Put on your head lamps and look ahead.

Every man and woman who owns a car wants to be out on holidays.

Have your car "tuned up" and inspected by an expert before you start.

Avoid those needless, embarrassing breakdowns while away from home.

OBITUARY

De Silva.

The mortal remains of the late Susie De Silva, who passed away July 9th, were laid away July 13th in Diamond Grove cemetery, this city.

The deceased was born October 8th, 1860, Jacksonville, Illinois, and was the eldest daughter of Joseph and Mary Meline. She resided here practically all of her life and was well known, having been in the business world for a number of years.

In 1883 she opened a fashionable modest shop in East Morgan street and was there until 1890. From this location she moved to West Court street where she continued in business for a number of years.

In 1885 she was married to John De Silva, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph De Silva of West Lafayette avenue, who preceded to the beyond eight years ago. In 1895 they left for Colorado Springs, Colorado, remaining there about a year and where a daughter was born but died in infancy. The year 1914-1915 was spent in San Diego, California.

For the past year and a half Mrs. De Silva had resided in Los Angeles, California. On June 10th she left there for a four months' visit in Chicago, Springfield and Jacksonville. On the way she was taken very ill. She arrived in Springfield June 13th and after a few days at the home of her sister, Mrs. Mollie M. Ferreira she was taken to St. John's hospital where she underwent two operations. After the second operation she passed away on the same day at 3:15 a. m. July 10th. Her sisters and brother were with her when the end came. Her nephew, Ernest Goebel, of Chicago, had visited at her bedside after the first operation, but had returned to his home.

Mrs. De Silva is survived by two brothers and three sisters: Joseph Meline and Mrs. Mollie M. Ferreira of Springfield, Mrs. Lisa Baptist of Jacksonville and Frank Meline and Leonore Meline White of Los Angeles, California. She had made her home with the latter for the past year and a half.

The funeral services were conducted from Northminster church and were in charge of Rev. W. E. Spooner. The casket bearers were nephews of the deceased and were Ernest M. Goebel and Leroy B. McCormack of Chicago, James Ferreira of St. Louis and Joseph and Robert Ferreira and Edwin Meline of Springfield.

Mrs. De Silva was a member of Northminster church. Her life was one of love and loving service and because of her kindness, sympathetic understanding and love for them all, she is greatly missed by relatives and many friends.

FORMER RESIDENT HERE.
H. M. Van Arsdale of Los Angeles, Calif., is visiting friends here and at Girard for a number of days. Mr. Van Arsdale was formerly employed at the Deaf and Dumb for several years and was also an employee of the Jacksonville Gas Company. Paige—Champion Hill-Climber of All

Wins First Place in "Free-For-All" Event at Albany Contest

At the annual Albany, N. Y., hill-climbing contest, in the event open to all cars, Paige won first place. And mark this—Paige won against a field of America's quality cars—accepted as leading fine cars. The hill is 4 1/2 of a mile long—covered by Paige in 1 minute and 18 2/3 seconds—the fastest time made in any class. A standard car was used, loaned by an owner—against cars specially prepared for this test.

This added proof of Paige's remarkable performance was not needed. You know that Paige out-performs other cars. Owners are proving it every day in passing other cars on hills—pulling away first in traffic—driving from 2 miles an hour in high to as fast as they care to go—always silently and smoothly. How do they do it? More power for its weight—only 11.4 pounds per cubic inch of piston displacement! That means far more power than in most cars and far more ability to perform. Yet this great power is perfectly controlled under any guidance. That's because of the gentle Paige clutch; easy, quiet gear shifting; and ball-bearing steering spindle.

Paige rides as you have always wished your car would, for Paige rear springs are more than 5 feet long. Think of it! Comfort on any road at any speed. With snubbers front and rear, and Paige long wheelbase of 131 inches, can you imagine any other car nearly as comfortable? Just compare them. Paige bodies are soundly built. Body squeaks and rattles are prevented by double strips of patent leather keeping metal from touching metal or wood. Deeply cushioned seats and ample foot room invite rest.

Paige cars are completely equipped—no extras to buy. Think of all the accessories you must buy for other cars—see the list below—standard equipment on your Paige. Add the cost of these—$300 at least—to the price of other fine cars, and then compare them with Paige. This extra value in Paige cars is the result of overhead costs saved on Paige by quantity production on the Paige-built Jewett. Paige is a $3000 car selling at $2450.

Check all this by seeing and driving the Paige. There is no obligation to buy. Just telephone or call for a demonstration whenever you like. Convenient purchase terms if desired. [509-A]

If You Were SENTENCED TO DEATH

If some unsuspected ailment strikes you down and your physician breaks the news that is virtually a death sentence, you would then realize that you had neglected some of nature's danger signals. The danger signals for many internal ailments are not visible to the naked eye.

But fortunately they are revealed at once to the well trained fingers of the competent CHIROPRACTOR in his analysis of the human spine. But be sure THEY are competent. See how many years they were in school. Their diploma tells the tale.

Announcing the 1924 Oakland 6

It's Brand New—and True Blue

This True Blue Oakland was deliberately planned to be the most perfectly balanced, the most accurately engineered and the finest built light-six in the world.

Two years have been devoted to its design, manufacture and test. Two years—plus the wealth of Oakland experience gained through many other years of exclusive light-six manufacture and the limitless resources of General Motors.

From axle to axle—it's new! It embodies features of mechanical superiority—of beauty and comfort and performance—heretofore unheard of in cars of its price! Every single part—from the new engine to the new bodies—was designed and built to fit and function in perfect harmony with every other part.

And because it has been so carefully designed, so soundly built and so thoroughly tested—Oakland places upon it, without hesitation, the same written 15,000 mile engine performance guarantee and the same Mileage-Basis gauge of value that have proved the quality and the value and the excellence of Oakland cars for years!

Four-Wheel Brakes—New Engine—New Bodies! Special Showing All Week—You Are Invited!

Come in and see this True Blue Oakland—built to be the finest light-six!

Study its exclusive features and you will marvel at the value built into this car at its new low price.

Test its four-wheel brakes—an outstanding safety achievement on a car of Oakland's price! Note how simple they are; learn why they require so much less attention than conventional two-wheel brakes.

Inspect the brand new engine—smoother, quieter and more powerful than even its highly successful predecessor, the Six-44.

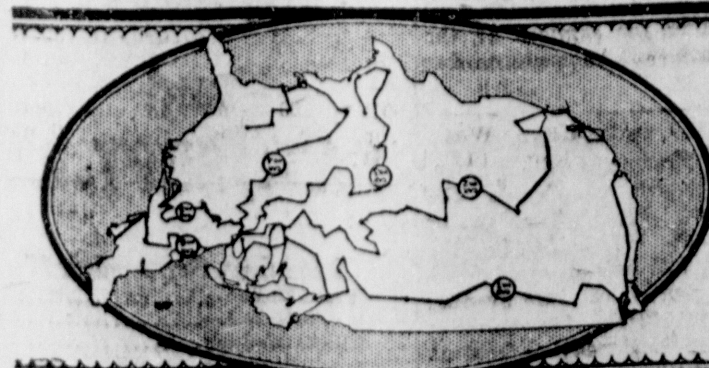

See the new blue bodies built by Fisher. The top is permanent with new side curtains comparing in snug-ness and utility to the doors of a closed car. Controls are centralized on the steering wheel. Disc steel wheels are standard at no added cost.

See this new Oakland at our special showing this week! Don't miss the first public exhibition of this True Blue car—the latest and finest achievement of the Oakland Division of General Motors.

Don't Experiment
Buy a 1924 Studebaker

The 1924 Studebaker Light-Six Touring car, with its refinements and improvements, offers the closest approach to mechanical perfection in moderate priced cars yet produced.

It continues to set the pace in the amount of value for the money invested. No radical departure from approved design has been attempted. There's nothing experimental about it—everything of recognized merit. Every vital unit has proved its satisfaction in the public use.

No matter how much money you expect to invest in a car, by all means see this Light-Six Touring car, ride in it—and drive it yourself. It is then that you realize the difference.

New all-steel body of striking beauty. One-piece, rain-proof windshield with attractive cowl lights set in base. Quick-action cowl ventilator. Door curtains, bound on three sides by steel rods, open with doors. Removable upholstery in tonneau. Door pocket flaps with weights hold them in shape. Upholstered in genuine leather. Large rectangular window in rear curtain. Third-proof transmission lock.

Comparison with other cars costing more—or less—will provide convincing proof of its greater dollar-for-dollar value, its dependable performance, ample power, extreme comfort, and many other desirable features.

The Light-Six is practically free from vibration because Studebaker machines the crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces. No other manufacturer follows this practice on a car at anywhere near the Light-Six price. This is just one of many superiorities.

After seventy-one years, the name Studebaker enjoys confidence and respect more than ever.
